'ROUP' DISEASES SHOWING UP IN POULTRY NOW

COLUMBUS - Poultry raisers were warned today to beware of confusing symptoms when "rouplike" diseases begin their cold weather appearance in poultry flocks.

"There are at least seven different poultry diseases which produce symptoms of so-called 'roup'," says the warning issued here by the American Foundation for Animal Health. "Heavy flock losses may result unless the owner determines accurately which disease is causing the trouble, and then take proper steps to check it. Usually this requires a competent veterinary diagnosis, for the symptoms are often very similar and quite confusing."

Cited among the diseases producing roup-like symptoms are: Laryngotracheitis, which causes gaping and choking.

Infectious bronchitis, causing runny nostrils and difficult breath-

Infectious coryza, causing head swellings, closed eyes, difficult

Others producing symptoms of a similar nature may include "lung fever", chronic bronchial colds, fowl cholera, and fowl pox, according to the Foundation.

This November, 1568 volumes of non-fiction were taken for home use, total circulation for the adults was 3612, for the juveniles 3955. Teachers and schools of county and the city borrowed 510 books and reported a circulation of 710 books taken for home reading and study.

There are several reasons for this increase in circulation. Hand in hand with it got the figures for membership, 147 registrations during the month of November. Of these 121 are new "never been in before" youngsters now in the first grades in school and so able to have cards in their own names for the first time. And it's a big day for these children when they are allowed to pick out their little primers and picture books to take home to read.

Some of these have been attracted to the library by stories of "all the new books," many of which were on display during Book Week, which came the second week in November, many of them are just beginning to feel the magic of the printed page, and many have heard about books and the public library, through this celebration of this same Book Week and its attendant publicity through schools, news and radio. Many of the Circleville teachers have been most cooperative in introducing the small child to the public library, in encouraging them to withdraw books for themselves, and in sending down the older ones with their reference questions to be worked out with the aid of the library's reference materials.

There are several reasons for this increase in circulation. Hand in hand with it got the figures for membership, 147 registrations during the month of November. Of these 121 are new "never been in before" youngsters now in the first grades in school and so able to have cards in their own names for the first time. And it's a big day for these children when they are allowed to pick out their little primers and picture books to take

Some of these have been attracted to the library by storles of "all the new books," many of which were on display during Book Week, which came the second week in November, many of them are just beginning to feel the magic of the printed page, and many have heard about books and the public library, through this celebration of this same Book Week and its attendant publicity through schools, news and radio. Many of the Circleville teachers have been most cooperative in introducing the small child to the public library, in encouraging them to withdraw books for themselves, and in sending down the older ones with their reference questions to be worked out with the aid of the library's reference materials.

No other factor in the dissemfnation of learning reaches the importance of the printed page. Greater reading makes for richer backgrounds essential for better understanding of great books, whether they may be music, arts and e crafts, economics, historical accounts, or other books. The little one often reads for the sheer plea-

MASHINGTON, Dec. 6-The labormanagement conference broke down

A few hours before the final insipid report was made to President Truman, the White House had been informed 'there was a good chance of agreement in favor of fact finding. # A Drug That Saves Lives Threatened by Blood Clots

CLOTTING of the blood is a very complex process. A number of substances take part in it. One of these substances is known as prothrombin. It has been found that persons lacking in vitamin K will have a deficiency of prothrombin. There is a drug known as dicumarol which also will produce a prothrombin deficiency, and effect it does not appear to have any harmful action on the human You may wonder of what value such a drug as dicumarol may be, but it has proven to be life saving. Quite often, following operations, persons may have what is known of a small bit of material, such as part of a blood clot, which lodges in the lung. Thrombophlebitis means the formation of a blood clot in a vein. At the Mayo Clinic, according to Doctor Nelson W. Barker, it was found that among 678 persons who had pulmonary embolism and recovered from it, and who are not given dicumarol, 297 or 43.8 per cent later on had another attack of thrombophlebitis or pulmonary | phlebitis.

tembolism, and in 124 or 18.3 per cent the embolism was fatal. Similar Cases

However, in 180 similar persons who had pulmonary embolism and recovered and who were given dicumarol only two had thrompophlebitis or embolism later on and in only one instance was the condition fatal. About the same results were obtained in two groups of patients with thrombohlebitis following operation. That s, if they were given dicumarol they were much less likely to have a second attack of thrombophlebitis or a pulmonary embolism.

Dicumarol is effective when given by mouth. However, there are certain instances in which it cannot be used, according to Doctor Barker. He thinks that it should not be employed when the person's kidneys are not working properly; when there is some indication of liver damage; if there is which the blood does not clot properly, or when there has been any recent operation on the brain or spinal cord. He states that it should be employed cautiously in persons who have a dietary de-

Thus, it may be seen that the proper use of dicumarol may lead to the saving of lives. It may be found of value in the treatment of persons who have had either a pulmonary embolism or thrombo-

We who are in business and have lived a half century or more certainly are justified in mourning for the "good old days." Once upon a time business was conducted by men willing to gamble on ability. They were masters of their own business fate, rising or falling according to service afforded the buying public. Now, about all a business man is permitted to do is gamble his dollars. He is told when to open and close, what to buy, what price to charge, what to pay his employes, how long to work, told to hoist wages an average of 24 percent and not increase the price of his product. # A Drug That Saves Lives Threatened by Blood Clots

CLOTTING of the blood is a very complex process. A number of substances take part in it. One of these substances is known as prothrombin. It has been found that persons lacking in vitamin K will have a deficiency of prothrombin. There is a drug known as dicumarol which also will produce a prothrombin deficiency, and hence will prolong the clotting time of the blood. Other than this effect it does not appear to have any harmful action on the human

You may wonder of what value such a drug as dicumarol may be, but it has proven to be life saving. Quite often, following operations, persons may have what is known as a pulmonary embolism or there may develop a condition known as thrombophlebitis.

Pulmonary Embolism

A pulmonary embolism consists part of a blood clot, which lodges in the lung. Thrombophlebitis means the formation of a blood

At the Mayo Clinic, according to Doctor Nelson W. Barker, it was found that among 678 persons who had pulmonary embolism and recovered from it, and who are not cent later on had another attack of thrombophlebitis or pulmonary | phlebitis.

cent the embolism was fatal. Similar Cases

However, in 180 similar persons who had pulmonary embolism and recovered and who were given dicumarol only two had thromophlebitis or embolism later on and in only one instance was the condition fatal. About the same results were obtained in two groups of patients with thrombophlebitis following operation. That s, if they were given dicumarol they were much less likely to have a second attack of thrombophlebitis or a pulmonary embolism.

Dicumarol is effective when given by mouth. However, there are certain instances in which it cannot be used, according to Doctor Barker. He thinks that it should not be employed when the person's kidneys are not working properly; when there is some indication of liver damage; if there is purpura present, a condition in which the blood does not clot propof a small bit of material, such as | erly, or when there has been any recent operation on the brain or spinal cord. He states that it should be employed cautiously in persons who have a dietary de-

At Last -A Real Treatment!

Anyone who has ever had Pin-Worms knows how tormenting and embarrassing this infection can be, and how hard it may be to deal with the creatures, once they get a foothold inside the body.

Today, thanks to a special, medically recognized drug (gentian violet), a highly effective treatment has been made possible. This drug is the vital ingredient in P-W, the Pin-Worm tablets developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son. P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms. So watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms in your child or yourself—especially the aggravating rectal itch. And don't delay. Ask your druggist for JAYNE'S P-W right away, and follow the directions. Satisfaction guaranteed, or your money back.

Seven Lettermen On Squad Of Friday Night Foe Of Circleville 5

Circleville high school Tigers face one of the strongest teams in Friday night when they go to Chillicothe for their first league game of the season.

Seven of the 14 men on the varsity squad at Chillicothe are lettermen from the 1944-45 championship team. Circleville won the first time the teams met, edging the Red Devils 33-31. But when Chillicothe came here Leon Sims and Junior Anderson had gone to the Navy and the Ross countians won easily. Circleville helped Chillicothe open the season before by handing the Red Devils a 51-29

This year's Chillicothe team is big and promises to get another championship for Coach Early Young in his last year at the Ross county school

Nine of the 14 boys are seniors Of the seven lettermen, three have won two basketball letters with the Devils. They are Charles Morris. Dick McCloskey and Neil Johnston. Other letter men are Jack Eley, Jack Meeker, Don Young and Roy Taylor. The lastnamed, however, will not be eligible until the second semester, but will be available for seven games and the district tournament

Other members of the current later, are Charles Plasters, who enrolled this year as a senior after three years at Milan, Mich., Dave Dunkle, Wayne Shupe and John Lewis-all of them seniors-together with Gary Walsh, Neil Duffy and John Street, juniors.

Only members lost from year's South Central league cha pionship team, which won games and lost five during regular season, is Don Martin, guard, who went into military s

AAA Officials State U. S. Government Give Food Growers 'Break'

Government price supports will back up farmers' conversion to peacetime porduction, the Pickaway county AAA committee reminded farmers Thursday.

Comparing the farmer's position following this and previous wars. Elmer Kruse, state director of the field service branch, production and marketing administration, said today that the big difference this time is the government's pricesupport program which "provides floors to keep prices from falling too low."

BRUSSELS IS PLACE TO BU YOUR URANIUM

Union Miniere Offices Are Hesitant About Telling Any Part Of Business

BY WALTER CRONKITE United Press Staff Correspondent

BRUSSELS-If you want to buy some uranium, the place to buy is the high-ceilinged, marblehalled offices of the Union Miniere du Haute Katanga in Brussels.

You may not get any uranium but the solemn-faced, soft-speaking directors of the Union Miniere happen to be the world's No. 2 producers of the basic element required for making atom bombs.

The directors don't like to speak about any aspect of their business, but one of them said that he "did not know of any reason why we could not sell our uranium to one of the company's many mines in the Congo district of Haute Katanga. The company's directors insist that they actually do not know how much uranium the mine produced during the war.

The home office was cut off from Congo during the war and officials say they don't know how much uranium was shipped to the United States from their mines. They say that not more than a dozen Belgians and 50 natives worked on uranium production.

"We have had no directives or instructions since the war," a company official said. "But we imagine that since the United States is still guarding its atom bomb secret it would like to have most of the auxiliary facts kept secret

The Union Minere is strictly a commercial operation. It has all mineral rights in the Haute Katanga under a concession from the Belgian government that runs almost to the year 2,000. Its stock is individually owned except for a small block held by the government through its colonial organi-

"Legally," an official said, "we have the right to sell uranium to anyone. The colonial office is just as sec- Girl Scout friendship squeeze of retive as the company about hands.

However, there are indications that the government plans some action to take control of uranium production in the Congo. The Socialist newspaper, Peuple, has de- headquarters, the meeting being ously and "banked" $140 with pomanded state operation and con- opened with the roll call and pay- lice headquarters overnight for trol of uranium deposits. This is believed to be a trial balloon to determine whether action on uranium could be taken without opening up the whole field of nationalization

State control will raise a technical problem. Uranium and radium are extracted from the same ore. If the Union Miniere is to continue operating the world's largest radium extraction plant in Oolen, near Antwerp, it may prove necessary to bring the ore first to Belgium for extraction of radium and then ship it to the United States to take out the uranium.

Union Miniere Offices Are Hesitant About Telling Any Part Of Business

BY WALTER CRONKITE United Press Staff Correspondent

BRUSSELS-If you want to buy some uranium, the place to buy is the high-ceilinged, marblehalled offices of the Union Miniere du Haute Katanga in Brussels.

You may not get any uranium but the solemn-faced, soft-speaking directors of the Union Miniere happen to be the world's No. 2 producers of the basic element required for making atom bombs.

The directors don't like to speak about any aspect of their bustness, but one of them said that he "did not know of any reason why we could not sell our uranium to

State control will raise a technical problem. Uranjum and radium are extracted from the same ore. If the Union Miniere is to continue operating the world's largest radium extraction plant in Oolen. near Antwerp, it may prove necessary to bring the ore first to Belgium for extraction of radium and then ship it to the United States to take out the uranium.

Women Must Learn About Many New Items Due On Market Soon

By BARBARA BUNDSCHU United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK-American women will need a new knowledge of fabrics if they want to know what they're buying in future years.

"The past five years have produced more fundamental changes and improvements in the manufacture of fabrics than any previous generation," Edward Flynn, editor of the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, states.

Many changes are yet to hit the mass market, but the simple old classifications of silk, wool, cotton and rayon already have more cousins than can be easily counted. New fabric mutations are appearing almost daily. Even the wellknown textiles are assuming new properties through varying treat-

Nylon and some of the plastics already are familiar to buyers. So, to some extent, is the skimmed milk fibre which is as warm as wool and will, according to Flynn, soon be available in fabrics of equal strength.

Other things to look for, Flynn said, are new fibres-glass, steel and aluminum for instance—and new processes which are making old fabrics more resistant to wear, wrinkles and the hazards of moth, mildew and fire.

Worsteds should be available at lower costs, Flynn said, because of a new process in which they are spun rather than loomed. New color harmonies will be available in
